Chord Progression

Identify the key that your blues will be in and write out the diatonic chord scale for the key. To figure out with key to use, try singing along to the I⁷ chord to find a scale that fits the vocalist's range.

Song Key _____

Write out the chords for the blues in the key of your song.

Four rows of musical notation for writing chords. Each row contains 16 diagonal slashes (//) representing notes, grouped into four measures of four notes each by vertical bar lines. The first three rows end with a vertical bar line, and the fourth row ends with a double bar line.
